Challenges

To improve learning outcomes for all student:

- To develop and put into practice an agreed understanding of instructional leadership, supported by an organisational structure and processes that attributed clear roles, responsibilities, and accountabilities, providing 'line of sight' to the classroom
- To update the Colleges instructional model – the Keysborough Learning Framework - to ensure lessons are planned and taught in alignment with this model to the agreed instructional model, therefore improving consistency in the detail in lesson plan and classroom instruction.
- Through the use of peer observation, coaching and feedback develop a predominant culture of practice improvement consistent across all teaching and non-teaching staff.
- To improve teachers understanding of differentiation so they may build on current examples of differentiated learning informed by pre– and post–testing and teacher observational data so that it becomes consistently evident across the college.
- To improve the expertise and confidence of teachers to understand and use student data
- To increase the opportunities for students to consistently influence curriculum design and consistently provide feedback the impact of teaching and learning. This to be accompanied by improving the understanding of teachers of the value of student voice and agency in the classroom.

For specific cohorts

For students identified as disadvantaged educationally by remote learning

For equity funded students

- Increase the above benchmark growth of all students.
- Review allocation of resources in response to the increasing differences in the Student Family Occupation (SFO) and Student Family Occupation and E(i)54e-8(E(-3(c)-5(c)-5(up)4(at)-5(up)4(at)-8.46599.38 38 31rh(O)-3ETQ2(O)-4()-3(an)4(d2 599.38 3 feedback, building teacher capability to utilise data and a range of assessment strategies to differentiate learning and determine impact and implement a whole college literacy improvement strategy.

The rationale for this is that in wanting to improve the outcomes for all students the college is aiming to ensure the consistency across all classes of high-quality teaching, informed by assessment practices that enable teachers to target teaching to students' point of need. The review findings demonstrated a lack of challenge for some students who could achieve more. The senior results are impacted by some students' limited literacy skills, particularly writing, and to that end the college wants to intervene with the implementation of a strategy across all learning areas, sharing the responsibility for improving literacy outcomes more quickly.

2. To improve engagement in learning for all students

We will achieve this by improving whole college instructional leadership capacity, developing, implementing, and reviewing curriculum to engage students in learning and by building teacher capacity to activate student voice and agency in learning.

The rationale for this is that the college wants to develop a common understanding of instructional leadership across the college supported by an organisational structure with clear attribution of roles and responsibilities and capability building to deliver on improved engagement and empowerment of learners in their learning across the college. The college is aiming to increase the accountability for high expectations and engaging curriculum through high quality instructional leadership.

3. Improve student resilience and enhance wellbeing.

We will achieve this by embedding the college 5P Learning Behaviour Framework and implementing an evidence-based Response to Intervention Framework.

The rationale for this is that the college wants to increase student responsibility for their own learning and build the attributes of being actively present and prepared, productive, persistent and proactive when it comes to their learning. The college found through the review that students were unwilling to challenge themselves and do more than what was expected, seeking opportunities to take risks in their learning or actively pursuing extension opportunities to achieve their potential.
